

MANAGED SECURITY SERVICE PROVIDER

MSSP PARTNER PROGRAM

Cyber attacks are becoming increasingly sophisticated. Prevention is still imperative to your security strategy. Yet, it must be supported with robust detection, response, and hunting capabilities to stop breaches before damage spreads. But for many security operations teams, detecting real threats across their entire IT infrastructure is like finding a needle in the haystack. They are often forced to piece together information from multiple siloed tools and navigate through an absurd number of daily alerts. Moreover, most security teams face multiple challenges to keep their SOC running 24x7x365, such as headcount and skill shortages. The results: critical attacks are missed until it's too late.

To overcome these challenges, companies are turning to Managed Security Service Providers (MSSPs) to enhance their security programs and answer the key need for:

Simplicity – Consolidated visibility and management for MSSP service offering

Scalability – Land and expand, bundled, and scalable services

Reliability – Industry-leading malware catch rates to new threats that emerge

Low Cost of Entry – Flexible billing options, no upfront investment, and tiered pricing

Monetization – Monetize your business through expanded product and service offerings
